DEMONS FORGE

"Death to him Your Majesty! He killed four of your guards in a tavern brawl."

The King stands calmly down at your bruised and battered form. You meet his eyes, snarling in defiance and trying to break free from the grip of heavy chains and manacles. The Monarch laughs at your efforts.

"You are a renowned gladiator," he says "and have fought often in my pits. For these past services I give you your life — but to prove your worthiness for freedom, you need find an exit from the Demon's Forge. Guards, remove him!"

You reason that you may as well have been executed. The Demon's Forge, an infamous dungeon network, has an exit as well as an entrance, but no one in past centuries has escaped alive.

You laugh bitterly, planning revenge as they cast you within, with nothing to aid you save a package of rations. Perhaps you will surprise them yet.
